FIRESTONE INDUSTRIAL PRODUCTS COMPANY, LLC, HAS MOVED INTO A NEW GLOBAL HEADQUARTERS

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., U.S.A. – Firestone Industrial Products Company, LLC (FSIP), the world's number one air spring manufacturer and a subsidiary of Bridgestone Firestone Diversified Products (BFDP), has moved into new global headquarters in Indianapolis across the street from its former office location. The new address is 250 W. 96th Street, Indianapolis, IN 46260. FSIP phone numbers and website, www.fsip.com, have not changed.

"With six assembly and manufacturing plants and technical capabilities located on four continents, Firestone Industrial Products is well positioned to continue growth in the global marketplace," said Mike Cerio, FSIP president. "Moving to larger facilities will enable us to expand our support capabilities to address the needs of our North American customers and the increasing international air spring market."

FSIP specializes in air spring manufacturing and technology with a history of more than 60 years of research and development on technologically advanced air springs. Its famous Airide™ brand has set the standard for air spring manufacturing and technology since 1939. BFDP is a subsidiary of Bridgestone Americas Holding, Inc. and is responsible for Bridgestone America's non-tire businesses, including industrial and building products, synthetic and natural rubber, and fiber and textile businesses. For more information, visit www.fsip.com.
